DETAILED ACTION

It is assumed that there is a typographical error and claims 25-28 are dependent from claim 24, since claim 22 is directed to a device.

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-23, drawn to a method and device for assessing a user's health based on measurements of two analytes, classified in class 702, subclass 22. If this Group is elected then the below summarized specie election is also required.
- II. Claims 24-28, drawn to a method for monitoring the health of a user involving calculating and tracking the evolution of an insulin resistance factor, classified in class 702, subclass 19.
- III. Claim 29, drawn to a method for monitoring a health parameter via correlation, classified in class 703, subclass 2.

Specie Election Requirement for Group I:

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Specie Election Requirement For Group I:

Specie A: step of assessing that comprises assessing a metabolic syndrome (i.e. claim 5)

Art Unit: 1631

Specie B: step of assessing that comprises calculating an insulin sensitivity factor (i.e. claim 6)

Specie C: step of assessing that comprises predicting the likelihood of the user developing hypoglycemia or hyperglycemia (i.e. claim 9)

Specie D: step of assessing that comprises utilizing a third parameter (i.e. claim 10)

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed specie for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The distinctness or independence of the various assessing steps (Group I), is because each contains a different goal or method steps that are distinct from the other assessing steps. These distinct species are often separately characterized and published in literature and would add undue search burden if they were all examined together. Thus, they are considered distinct invention types for restriction purposes.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the specie that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Art Unit: 1631

Should an applicant traverse the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Although there are no provisions under the section for "Relationship of Inventions" in M.P.E.P. § 806.05 for inventive groups that are directed to different processes, restriction is deemed to be proper because these methods appear to constitute patentably distinct inventions for the following reasons: Groups I-III are directed to processes and methods that recite structurally and functionally distinct elements, are not required one for the other, and/or achieve different goals. Group I requires assessing a user's health based on measurements of two analytes that differs from the other groups. Group II requires involving calculating and tracking the evolution of an insulin resistance factor that is not required in any other group. Group III requires monitoring a health parameter via correlation that is not used in any other group. These distinct processes and methods are often separately characterized and published in literature and would add undue search burden if they were all examined together. Thus, they are considered distinct invention types for restriction purposes.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Art Unit: 1631

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
